Chapter 1 by Tailors <3

My job is outrageous. I still remember the day I was given the Machete. My beloved death side. The day William told me I was a grim reaper. The day I woke up in purgatory. The day I died in the accident. My vow to be better. The day I broke my vow and killed that boy. The school.

"Jackie Mason" The Voice had said."You are a Grim Reaper. You belong in purgatory. You are an abomination to humans. But not to me. I will give you a chance to work for me." The darkness. Fear. I'm an abomination. Repulsive. Disgusting. But I loved it.

Chapter 2 by Nick Kincaid

I burned, I burned and writhed in pain for what felt like 100 years for each person I killed. I was later told by William that this was mere seconds for everyone else. This was my punishment, but this was my initiation into an organization I still know very little about.

What little I know was told to me by William, thank the devil for him, who will be my handler for at least 50 human years on top of his duties as a Reaper. William tells me normal Grim Reapers collect souls and make it very hard for people to cheat death, but William also tells me Grim Reapers like him and myself are special because of what we did during our human lives.

Us special Grim Reapers are part of the team that is very important I am told. We observe and report on the world. We are not to interfere. We care the devil himself. Our work can last thousand years. Our work will go unfinished. Past this information what I learn about Grim Reapers will be on a need-to-know basis until I finish my assignment number uno. once I'm done I get a private audience with the devil himself and unlimited access to anything Reaper due to my special status.

My first assignment is a kid who can see people's names, birth date, and death date. I am to learn the who, what, when, where, why, and how of their ability and I only have one rule, do not let them die ... yet.
